Inappropriate!

I was having a ball playing my guitar when my Father informed me one day that the Johns' don't play for a living, we work. Suddenly I was the assistant manager of Loomer Lanes in Transcona where he got me the job even though I didn't a bowl. After a few months and being a bit of a smart ass, I thought what the hell and applied for the managers job at a brand new Bowling Alley which was under construction. This one was gonna be special though because it also contained a pool room and pool I know about as I spent most of my time getting my street education at one while attending TCI.

I met with the owners of the new place who told me that they were impressed with me but in order for us to proceed I needed to be a certified bowling instructor so off to the Brunswick School Of Bowling I go. I aced the test and about a month later they called to offer me the job which included a nice fat salary plus bonus incentives but unfortunately or maybe not I had just been recently hired by CKY as a part time board op. The CKY job paid minimum wage which was a dollar an hour but as I was recently engaged my Mother broke out in tears when she overheard me turn the bowling alley folks down because I had started my brand new career. She was very upset because the wedding was less then a year away and how was I going to support myself let alone a Wife with my new career which only paid a dollar an hour and was also only part time. When my Father came home later that night he surprisingly backed me telling my Mom that it was the first time he had ever seen me excited about any kind of work so he thought they should back me. He told me that I better give it everything I've got. I did Dad!

I think one of the reasons we talk about the past a lot is because you know what to say about it. What the hell do you say about the future.

Why do people who don't play guitar own guitars. My oldest has three, my youngest one has one, and of course neither play.

They changed the name of Global Warming to Climate Change just in the nick of time because back home in Transcona it may still be snowing which would have made them look like idiots.

Free speech does not guarantee immunity.

Once is never enough but maybe it should be.

It's not about failing its about whether or not you accept it.

I'm not sure how to achieve happiness but I know for sure that I'm not sad when I'm excited and I do know what excites me.

Women are the only ones who know when it's inappropriate to have sex.

Artistic things never happen naturally.

The goal of every entertainer should be to act somewhat like they're not doing it just for the money.

Only the things that you are embarrassed and ashamed about make good stories.

The only people who can keep Mr. Business Man under control are his competitors.

Wars are between the governments of countries not the people we just get dragged into them.

What idiot came up with after we win the war that we should give everything back to the rich people after they lose the war that they started.

The horrifying part about spending years chasing fame is someone else can achieve it instantly by killing you.

I understand the State of Nebraska can grow enough food by itself to feed the whole world but for economic reasons we send poor countries money.

Does that make any sense to anybody besides the politicians and the farmers who are paid not to grow things.

About 35% of your audience is listening to your Radio Station the rest are just kinda overhearing you and some of them reluctantly so.

Has there ever been an NFL team that became anything special without a charismatic coach leading them.

Do those loud mouth professional athletes who make millions ever give anything back to the communities they came from.

Speaking of sports I can't believe with all the money college sports bring in why education isn't free.

You should only do the things you like to do because they probably are the only things that you're any good at.

I remember having conversations with Cami when she was about 14 where no matter what I told her she claimed she already knew about that because she was no longer a kid. One day when I told her I had something important

I needed to discuss with her she said ... Dad I'm not an adult yet, I'm only 14.

I heard that a Tattoo is the permanent record of momentary insanity.

Women don't appear to be of a serious nature until you marry them. After the wedding not only are very serious but they also become experts on every subject known to mankind.

The answer has always been to simply ask the right question.

Just because something is not against the law doesn't make it moral.

While growing up I really didn't listen to my Father much but now I finally realize that much of what I believe in was taught to me by him.

The only problem with knowing exactly what to do is ... Now ya gotta do it!